And Knocks Rim Out in the Second Round . The Fight Only Lasts Four Minutes and Forty Seconds-Seven Thousand Persons at the Scene of Battle-Fitzelmmons Challenges Corbett to Fight for $10,000 a Side and the Champtonehip of the World,

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 26,-The twenty-fiveround contest to-night at the Olympic A. C. between Bob Fitzimmons and Dan Creedon for a purse of $5,000, at the middle-weight limit, re mited in favor of Fitzalmmons, who knocked Creedon out in the second round. The easy and scientific manner in which the Australian scored his victory proves what a great pugliist he is, and it is the general opinion of every one who was present that he is a worthy rival of Cor-

It was generally thought that Fitzsimmon would make it a long fight. He has the reputation of wanting to please his spectators. When he fought Upham, his first battle here, he could easily have knocked his man out in the first round, but made it longer to please the crowd. When he fought Jim Hall he was afraid to take the chances, and knocked Hall out at the first chance he got. In all the other fights, however, he has been in here, he has spared his man, when he could easily have knocked him out.

In the case of Creedon, Fitz evidently con cluded to change his tactics, and his friends confessed that he did so in order to show that he was worthy to meet Corbett. He wanted to prove how easily he could knock Creedon out, who showed himself a very good man to-night, and also to prove that there was no man in his class that can meet him. He weighed in this Fitzsimmons is always prompt at the club house, so as to give himself ample time for rest from the ride there, which is long and rather tough. He was at the club by 7 o'clock and selected his old quarters, the down-stairs room, occupied by every successful nugillat who has fought before the Olympic Club save Sullivan Here THE SUN correspondent found Fitz stretched out at length on a lounge, with only his underclothing on. His little son, a boy of four or five years, whom he takes along as a mascot, was with him and a couple of friends. The puglist looked larger and better than in any previous fight, but his hands were as cold as those of a young girl at her first ball. He seemed to be engaged in deep thought, as though planning his battle, and had hardly a "howdy" for his visitors. Quite a number of persons called on the pugilist, and he said that he was in splendid condition and expressed a desire to meet Corbett.

There was a rumor that Fitzsimmons had a hadly ulcerated knee, which would more or less cripple him and render him stiff during the fight. An examination showed a small bruised spot on the knee about the size of a dime. This Fitzsimmons received a week or so ago, when he fell while trying to leap a wooden horse. He also said that he had suffered from an abscess on his jaw, which he had got from bathing in Creedon arrived fifteen minutes after Fitzsimmons. He is not as well known here as the Australian, and there were very few visitors to his quarters. He seemed to be in splendid condition. His backers encouraged him by the re-port that Fits was in bad condition. He ex-pressed the hope that the fight could be fought to a finish, and that it would not be stopped in twenty-five rounds if he was getting the better of ble autographs.

By 9 o'clock the arena was filled, better filled than at any time since the Corbett-Sullivan fight. Prof. Johnny Duffy, the referee, entered the ring at 9:12 o'clock. Frank Carambat was announced as official timekeeper for the club. Creedon entered the ring accompanied by Tom Tracy, the weiter weight. Mick Dunn. and Charley Davis. He was followed quickly by Fitzsimmons, who was dressed in ring costume of blue trunks, with the American colors on his belt. The crowd went wild on the entrance of the champion middle weight, and he bowed his acknowledgments repeatedly. He was accompanied by his seconds, Jack Dempsey, Jim Dwyer, and Kid McCoy, with Sim Stern as timekeeper.

Shoond Round.—Creedon dodged a left-hand punch for the stomach. He got on one on Bob's ribs, but he caught the left and right on the head and neck, and a fearful left in the jaw floored him. He waited for the nine to be counted before rising, and Fitz stepped back and gave him plenty of time to get squarely on his feet. Creedon tried to get in close, but Fitzsimmons met him squarely with his left in the chest and a terrible right-hand swing on the jaw. Creedon went back about fifteen feet and Hob followed quickly and began to use his head for a punching bag.

Creedon did not stand a ghost of a chance, and valuly essayed to swing his arms. He was bleeding from the nose and mouth. Fitz used his pile-driving left for the knock out. Hedrew back, sized up the coveted landing place, and sent the blood-covered glove in like a shot direct for the mouth.

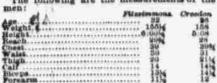

The blow landed with terrific force full on the mouth. Creedon went down like a log and never stirred. Hob strolled over to his corner and quietly observed to Dwyer: "He won't come back."

Referre Duffy counted the ten and out, and the crad went perfectly wild with excitement. Pandemonium broke loose, and the referee called vainly for quiet. Creedon's seconda jumped into the ring and carried their unconscious principal to his corner.

The fight lasted just four minutes and forty seconds. It was fully five minutes before Creedon where he was until long after the fight.

The position of this preferred stock is singu-iar. The New York, Ontario and Western is the successor to the New York and Oswego Midland Railroad Company, which failed in 1873. A receiver was appointed and $2,000,000 of reelver's certificates were issued. A reorganization was affected in 1881, under which an assessment was levied upon the stock and funfor bonds, which produced about $9,000,000 cash. A new company, the New York, Ontario and Western, was formed and received into its treasury the amount paid in assessments. Preferred stock was given for the $2,000,000 or receiver's certificates with the provision that this preferred stock should elect eight out of the thirteen directors until a dividend should be this preferred stock should elect eight out of the thirteen directors until a dividend should be declared on the common stock.

A majority of this preferred stock was bought by people interested in the New York. West Shore and Buffalo, then in course of construction, and a line was built to connect with the latter road. After the bankruptcy of the West Shore, the Ontario and Western found itself with an empty treasury, about a million dollars in debt, and guarantor of $6,000,000 West Shore Terminal obligations. It received, however, upon the reorganization of the West Shore a running right into New York over the West Shore line for 200 years.

In 1885 the New York, Ontario, and Western was anthorized by the Legislature to exchange its mortgage bonds for the preferred stock, dollar for dollar, and to cancel the latter. The preferred stock thus retired was to be transferred to and registered in the names of Thomas P. Fowler, Richard Irvin, Jr., Thomas Swinyard, Charles S. Whalen, and William F. Dunning, to be held by them until all the stock was exchanged and transferred, and until that time the trustees were entitled to vote upon the preferred stock so exchanged. A mortgage for $4,000,000 was created, and $2,000,000 of six per cent. bonds were placed with the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company for purposes of exchange.

About 1885, Measrs, Joseph Price and Charles

per cent. bonds were placed with the Farmers Loan and Trust Company for purposes of exchange.

About 1888, Messrs. Joseph Price and Charles J. Russell of London were substituted as trustees of the preferred stock in the places of Messrs. Swinyard and Dunning, who resigned. The English stockholders also allowed Messrs. Price and Russell to put the English common stock in their names on the books of the company and return the stock to the owners after being endorsed. Proxies for this stock are voted at the elections by President Fowler, so that Messrs. Fowler, Price, and Russell being a majority of the trustees of the preferred stock and holding proxies for so large an amount of common stock practically control the affairs of the company.

All of the preferred stock has been exchanged except sixty shares, and the result is that $6,000 of preferred, stock overrides $38,000,000 of common stock and will continue to do so as long as the trust continues. The ownership of the sixty shares of preferred stock is said to be unknown.

AMUSEMENTS.

New Comedy by Jerome for Sothern, En

A moneyless young lawyer is in love with a girl who, believing she can never be else that miserable as a poor man's wife, discards him while loving him, and frankly explains the reason why she does it. Immediately opportunity comes to him to enrich himself by means of a crime, self to be a thrifty wooer, he gains the girl's consent. She does not guess the source of his wealth, yet it is obnoxious to her, notwithstanding her nercenary disposition, as she feels that she is selling herself for it. So both are wretched in the betrothal-she with selfloathing and he with remorse, for he was honorable before yielding to temptation. Meanwhile, the truth is threatening him, and when exposure is close at hand he makes confession and restitution. He means to end it all with suicide, but the girl begs him to live for her, and they go in quest of possible happiness together in obscure poverty.

That was in Jerome K. Jerome's "A Way to Win a Woman," which was performed at the Lyceum Theatre last evening, with Edward H. Sothern as the man who committed the crime for love. The character had been written vividly, and although Mr. Sothern was not able to get the whole mastery of it, he rendered it with much care and considerable effect, and with a touch of the rebuisite subtlety once in a while. The part began with a graphic dialegue between the lovers, in which his warm fervor and her sordidness were developed, and near its end it had a Mr. Sothern did his best with this matter, and won a degree of success with it, though he ought won a degree or success with it, though he ought to adhere to serio-comic parts if he would please his admirers thoroughly.

The play had been written admirably by Mr. Jerome, so far as fitness of language was concerned, and with a keen theatric instinct, too, But the plot might as well have been contrived by A. Conan Doyle, for in none of the "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" were the circumstances more ready to the hand of the author than they were in "A Way to Win a Woman." Their perfect timeliness and suitability were far too wonderful to seem true, and the audience, after growing more and more inclined to incredulity, absolutely refused to believe that an amateur photographer led by chance focussed his camera on a dying man engaged in making a will, that the handwriting could afterward be deciphered in the picture with a microscope, and that the single print from the negative found its way haphazard from Mexico to England, there to fall right into the household where that very document was being frustrated. This element of improbability pervaded the whole play, in big and little things alike, and damaged it badly.

"The vaudeville craze crept in about four years ago," said Manager Crane. "It was never wanted here, and I always opposed it. But the directors believed it was a necessity. During the summer vacation the vaudeville performance was temporarily suspended, and immediately the number of visitors increased. RAGING ALONG THE COAST.

THE GULF HURBICANE STRIKES THE SOUTHERN STATES.

A Velocity of Nearly Ninety Miles on Hour at Tybes Island, Off Savannah-Great Fenra for the Rice and Cotton Crops-Signal Service Warnings Caused Preparations for the Blow, and the Loss of Life Is Expected to Be Small.

SAVANNAR, Sept. 26.-The West Indian hurcane raged here to-day and threatens to be of greater intensity than the memorable storm Aug. 27, 1893. The wind at 6 o'clock to-night was blowing at from fifty to seventy miles an hour and increasing in velocity. The height of the storm will come about midnight. The indications are now that the damage to property will be heavy, but the loss of life will be small ample warning having been given to the Sea Islanders. It is feared, though, that many negroes will be drowned on the islands in the vicinity of Beaufort, Port Royal, and elsewhere on the Carolina coast. These islands will be exposed to the full force of the tornado, and as the water may be higher than last year and lashed into fury by a wind ranging from seventyfive miles an hour upward the outlook is grave. The tides at this part of the month are at their highest. Ordinarily this would work no dam age. The water to-night, however, will probably be the highest in several years. The winds are sweeping the water from the ocean up past the islands and over the land with irresistible force. Tybee Island is probably buried under an aval anche from the ocean. The water there at 11 o'clock this morning, when it should have been low tide, was higher than at the highest tide recorded. A steady gale of sixty-six miles an bour, with the velocity of the gusts ranging as high as seventy-five miles, was sweeping the water over the island. Two British steamships were lying off Tybec expende to the full fury of Observer Evans, at the Martello tower, tele phoned to the Board of Trade that the outlook was worse than at the time of the last great storm. At the rate the water was coming over the island Tybee would be entirely under water by the time darkness came, he believed. The Martello tower is regarded as safe, and those on the Island will have to take refuge there and in the lighthouse. Unless there is a change in the direction of the wind Tybee seems to be doomed. With the ocean covering the Island, and whipped into a fury by a tornado such as that now making its way northward, the fate of the hotels and the cottages seems to be hopeless.

Telephone communication with the island eased early this afternoon, and, as the storm has steadily increased in intensity ever since, the worst is feared. Many of the residents of Mont-gomery, Isle of Hope, Thunderbolt, and other places where the storm's force is apt to be felt more than in the city, brought their families in this morning. Rice planters say that the great er part of the crop had been cut and stacked and that the outlook is bad. The loss promise to be very heavy, if not entire. Said one:

"I am very much afraid the rice industry is doomed. We could not stand another such loss as that of last year."

"What is the crop this year?" he was asked. "There were about 10,000 acres planted," he replied. "That was about 7,000 less than last year. The average yield has been estimated at thirty-five bushels, which would give us a crop of 350,000 bushels. With an average price of 75 cents a bushel that would give us a total value of over $260,000. This will give you an ides of the financial interest we have at stake." There is fully as much anxiety among the rice men as was felt by them on Aug. 27 of last year. The conditions appear to be about the same. The high river has been watched with great inerest. Most islands near the city are deserted. The quarantine station is buried in a mass of mist. On Tybee the roar of the breakers is terrific. With a gale now blowing in from the ocean and up the river crossed by the Tvbee Railroad there is danger of the same ruin to it that was brought last year. Naval stores men are also on the anxious seat. They have on hand 60,000 casks of turpentine valued at $800,000, and 110,000 barrels of rosin of the value of over $300,000, making a total value of over $1,100,000. Last year's storm played havoc with naval stores. Every one is now afraid that to-night may see a repetition of that experience, with a stock of far greater

The steamship Kansas City left New York yesterday afternoon. She will strike the bad weather this side of Hatteras, and the Dessoug. which left Philadelphia on Monday, will meet the storm to-night. Several sailing vessels are on their way to this port. Apprehensions are No vessel left port today. The City of Augusta will go north in the wake of the storm.

Late this afternoon telephone communication was re-established for a few minutes with Tybes Island. The observer there then reported a velocity of wind of eighty-eight miles an hour. To-night the wind has changed to north and orthwest, and is driving back the water. If there is no further change this will save the rice crop from the total ruin threatening it. The storm centre is believed by the observer to have pyssed to east of Savannah. Charleston and the islands on the Carolina coast will probably get the full force of a gale of from eighty to ninety miles an hour.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 26.-Charleston is again fast in the grip of a Gulf storm. The blow began early vesterday morning, but owing to the ample warning given by the Weather Bureau every one had time to prepare for it, so far as preparation could go. The summer colony on Sullivan's Island all packed up and came to the city yesterday. The blow of Tuesday was unaccompanied by a single drop of rain, although the velocity attained by the wind was thirty-six miles an hour. This morning, about 6 o'clock the rain began to fall and the velocity of the wind to increase. By noon the city was in a

The highest velocity of wind reported up to The highest velocity of wind reported up to this time is 46 miles, but the chief damage done has been by the fearful flood of sail water which has, without doubt, extended to the rice fields. It is not improbable that the rice crop will be aimost entirely destroyed except that part of it which is aiready harvested. The cotion fields along the coast, which are white with opening bolls, are also probably destroyed.

Thus far there are few casualities reported in the harbor. One bark, which has just come up from Quarantine without ballast, has capsized at her dock. Most of the other ships are safely anchored, the steamers having steam up. There are are about sixty vessels in port and a great deal of cotton. These vessels have had ample time to prepare to ride out the gale. The chief damage so far has been confined to the wharves and the East Shore Terminal Company. The town is pretty well covered by tornado insurance.

Lacksonvillet, Fla. Sept. 26. The expected hurricans from the West Indies struck Jacksonville to-day at 11 A. The unfinished Union station is blown down. There is no communication from South Florida, and it is expected that many indian River examps groves are ruled.

The streets of Jacksonville are flooded. The river is three feet above the normal. The wind at the mouth of the river recorded fifty miles an hour. Mayport River at its mouth is flooded and several houses are inundated. Two houses in Jacksonville were blown down, but no person was killed. No trains are arriving and departing from Jacksonville. Many washouts are reported.

Nonyous, Sept. 26.—Norfolk caught the Florda burricane to-night, and the wind at 8 o'clock registered thirty-five miles an hour. No wrecks have been reported, due, perhaps, to the fact of the timely warning sent out by the Signal Service. At Cape Heary the velocity of the wind registered fifty miles an hour, and is stoadily increasing. The waves are very high, and the life savers are keeping a charp lookout for any vessels that may come ashore.

Late this afternoon a bottle was washed ashore at Virginia Beach in which was a card which read "F. J. Lingerte, pascenger department Chesapeake and Ohio Rallway, Cincinnati, O.," and on the other side read. "Lost at sea." Whether this is a canard or not cannot be ascertained, but probably it is, from the fact that no vessel's name is mentioned. No steamers attempted to issue port to-night on account of the blow, and those coming down the bay will take the precaution to anchor, if nocessary, in small inlets that afford shelter.

THE RURRICANE COMING.

It Is Expected to Reach Our Coast by To-night-Florida's Orange Crop Ruined, WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. People who live long the Atlantic coast from Georgia to Massachusetts will to-morrow have a taste of a pretty lively gale, while the men who go out to sea in ships in defiance of the warning that is now two days old will do so at the peril of their lives. The hurricane that was born somewhere in the tropical seas was central near Jacksonville this morning, where the maximum velocity of the wind was reported to the Weather Bureau to be forty-six miles an hour. The disturbance has been slowly working up the coast of Florida, and the indications are now that it will recurve from the coast near St. Augustine and put seaward, with an increased forward movement, in a north by northeasterly direction. These storms travel mething after the fashion of a billiard ball that has been driven with much "English" against the cushion. The moment it comes in contact with an obstruction its speed is accelerated. So this storm, meeting the land, has recurved, and its northward movement will be much more rapid, so rapid that New York will feel it by to-morrow night.

Immediately after morning reports were received at the Weather Bureau to-day, a mes-sage was sent to Gray Gables notifying the President of the conditions and advising him not to take a sail until after the storm had bulletin stating that the wind at 11 A. M. had shifted to the northwest at Jacksonville, with a pressure of 29.36, showing that the storm centre was a few miles southwest of that station, All the principal towns along the coast from Connecticut to Florida were warned of violent gaies and high tides.

The centre of this storm, according to the latest calculation, will be out at sea, but the coast cities like Washington, Baltimore, and New York will feel much of the wind, although it Is not expected to reach the velocity of the storm of last August, when a record of fifty-eight miles was reached. With a maximum of but forty-six miles, the Agricultural Department was this afternoon notified that the Union Depot, now in course of erection at Jacksonville, Fla., was blown down. The observer there also reported to be gathered. This crop was ripe and just about to be gathered. It would be impossible for the oranges to cling to the trees in the face of such a gale, so that the greater part of this valuable crop has probably been destroyed. In addition to all this wind the territory about the Jacksonville section of Florida was drenched by a down-pour of more than five inches of rain during the passage of the storm.

The wind has been freshening up all day in Washington and to-morrow will open with a stiff breeze. This is expected to increase to a gale in the afternoon, but unless all the indications fall, the wind will not attain to the diguity of a hurricane, except at sea along the coast.

the schooner Ironton at 12:30 o'clock this morning about ten miles off Presque Isle, on Lake Huron, and within thirty minutes the steamer settled and sank to the bottom.

The Ironton, which had been a consort of the steamer C. J. Kershaw, swung off after the collision and began to roll—a helpless wreck in the heavy sea. She began to sink rapidly, and her crew took to the boats and a raft. Capt. John Isbestor and the crew of sixteen of the steamer ofhio launched the steamer's life boats, and were soon picked up by the schooner Moonlight, also a consort of the steamer kershaw.

The crew of the Ironton did not have time to construct life rafts, and their only yawi was stove in by the collision. They seized planks and barrels and struck out for Presque Isle. Two were picked up by the steamer Charles Hebard and taken to the "Soo."

The names of the missing sallors of the Ironton are not known. They are supposed to be safe on shore somewhere in the vicinity of Detour. The lirst mate of the Ohio, Arnell Hodge, had a terrible experience in the cuppy sea of Lake Iluron. For two hours he battled the waves and endeavored to reach the shore. When nearly exhausted the Kershaw's lookout discovered him and took him aboard. The Ohio carried a cargo of 500 tons of flour and feed, bound from Duluth to Ogdensburg.

MME. SOURERBEILLE'S WILL. It Provides $20,000 to Found a Scholarship at Williams College, The will of the late Maria Louise Souberbellie, who died on May 14 last in London, was filed here yesterday in the Surrogate's Court. In the affidavit the American estate is valued at $750,-000. There are also French and English estates equally as large, but they have been devised and bequeathed by separate wills, and are not sub-ject to the will filed yesterday. The French will has been destroyed, it is said, and the English will does not affect any of the American bequests.

The testator was the daughter of the late Horace Francis Clark of this city, and she has provided for the perpetuation of her father's name by bestowing upon Williams College $20,000 to found the Horace Francis Clark scholarship. Besides this the decedent then makes the following bequests:

To Helen Clark, wife of the decedent's cousin, Horace F. Clark, $5,000; to her friend, Alice Stone of Riverdale $1,000; to Marie Milford Murray of Bradford, Pa., $10,000, to be paid in bonds of the Lake Shore road; to Mrs. F. C. Wagner, wife of Tax Commissioner's services to her, $5,000; to her cousin, Mary Clark, $5,000, and to Georgia Clark Bridgwater of Boston, $2,500; to the decedent's husband, Mariano Edward Souberbeille, $20,000, provided he pays the bequests enumerated in the will; to Edith Louise Collins, a daughter by a former marriage, $20,000, being her legal half of the estate at Croissy, Seine et Oise, France, provided she agrees to renign all legal claims against the estate. If she contests the will, the bequest is to revert to the husband.

Of the residue, $20,000 is given to the decedent's husband, the daughter, and the cousin, Mary Willard.

The fakers and county fair gamblers were out in force. A loud-voiced man stood on the platform in front of a tent in which two alleged Kouta-Kouta girls were, and announced Ladles and gentlemen, within this tent is contained the two most beautiful girls who danced on the Midway Plaisance. They do the most wonderful dance on record, namely, the Kouta Kouta dance of the Midway Plaisance. They are also the self-same maidens who languished five months in a prison for performing this five months in a prison for performing this dance. Come, gentlemen, it only costs you the quarter of a dollar. I would like to ask the ladies in, but this show is for gentlemen only."

This cry, kept up continually, attracted a crowd. About 4 o'clock Mr. E. Potter and Mr. C. S. Bates came along and decided to see the Kouta-Kouta girls. They invited Mr. F. J. Underhill to accompany them. The tric started off toward the tent, and had just got out their money when a man wearing the badge of a policeman walked up to the man who was yelling about the Kouta-Kouta girls and told him that he had been sent by Superintendent Moran to stop the dance. The showman argued with the policeman in vain. So the Kouta-Kouta girls were ordered to dress. To see that this order was enforced the policeman kept guard on the platform.

Two Spirited Young Ladies Rebel Against the Roman Pronunctation. The old troubles in St. Paul's R. C. Church, in the Greenville district of Jersey City, have been revived in new form. The first form of the disturbance was the removal of Father Lee, the curate, to Harrison, at the instance, it was alleged, of the rector, Father Schandel, who, is was further alleged, was jealous of Father Lee's popularity. That was finally adjusted and there was peace in the parish. Now another row has broken out over the pronunciation of a Latin word in the mass. It is "coell," which the singers had been accustomed to pronounce the singers had been accustomed to pronounce sail.

One day recently Organist Schreiner issued an ediet that the word should be pronounced "kalee," in accordance with the idea of the so-called Roman pronunciation that is in vogus in many colleges. The choir appealed to Father Schandel, but he refused to interfere. Miss ide Lembeck and Miss Mahony, the two principal singers, utterly rebelled against "kalee," and withdrew from the choir.

Miss Lembeck's cause was espoused by her parents, and the entire family withdrew from the church. Mr. Lembeck is a man of wealth, and has been a liberal contributor to the church, and his defection, his friends say, will be seriously feit.

OBITUARY.

Charles B. Farley, formerly Sheriff of Kings county, died shortly before noon yesterday at his home, 379 Van Buren street, Brooklyn. In July last Mr. Farley was splitting wood in the back yard of his residence, when the axe slipped and struck the great toe of his right foot. The wound was not properly attended to and gangrene followed. This, with a kidney disease, caused his death. Ex-Sheriff Farley for nearly a quarter of a century had been the most pepular fireman in Brooklyn. He was born in 1841, and when 18 years old he became a member of Hose Company No. 5 in the old volunteer department. Soon after the breaking out of the war he assisted in the organization of Company F. Fourteenth Regiment, and went to the front. He frequently distinguished himself, and a commission was tendered to him, but declined a higher grade than that of sergeant. When he returned from the war he was made foreman of Hose Company No. 5. On the organization of the paid Fire Department he was appointed Assistant Engineer, and in a few years was made a District Engineer. He retained the place until 1884, when he was elected Sheriff on the Demogratio ticket, defeating Corporal Tanner, the legiess veteran, by a big majority. During his long career as a fireman he saved many lives, and his personal acts of bravery were frequently recorded. In early life he was known among his companions in the old volunteer department as "Buck" Farley, and the name clung to him until the close of his life. He leaves a widow, who was paralyzed about a year ago and is still help-less, and four children.

THE BUSINESS MAN'S LUNCH.

Hard Work and Indigestion go Hand in Hand.

Concentrated thought, continued in, robe the stomach of necessary blood, and this is also true of hard physical labor. When a five horse-power engine is made to do ten horse-power work something is going to break. Very often the hard-worked man coming from the field or the office will "bolt" his food in a few min-utes which will take hours to digest. Then too, many foods are about as useful in the stomach as a keg of nails would be in a fire under a boiler. The ill-used stomach refuses to do its work without the proper stimulus which it gets from the blood and refuses to do its work without the proper stimulus which it gets from the blood and nerves. The nerves are weak and "ready to break," because they do not get the nourishment they require from the blood, finally the ill-used brain is morbidly wide awake when the overworked man attempts to find rest in bed.

The application of common sense in the treatment of the stomach and the whole system brings to the busy man the full enjoyment of life and healthy digestion when he takes Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pelleta to relieve a bilious stomach or after a too hearty meal, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to purify, enrich and vitalize the blood. The "Fellets" are tiny sugar-coated pills made of highly concentrated vegetable ingredients which relieve the stomach of all offending matters easily and thoroughly. They need only be taken for a short time to cure the biliousness, constipation and slothfulness, or torpor, of the liver; then the "Medical Discovery" should be taken in teaspoonful doses to increase the blood and enrich it. It has a peculiar effect upon the lining membranes of the stomach and bowels, toning up and strengthening them for all time. The whole system feels the effect of the pure blood coursing through the body and the nerves are vitalized and strengthened, not deadened, or put to sleep, as the so-called celery compounds and nerve mixtures do but refreshed and fed on the food they celery compounds and nerve mixtures do but refreshed and fed on the food they need for health. If you suffer from indigestion dyspepsia, nervousness, and any of the ills which come from impure blood and disordered stomach, you can care yourself with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which can be obtained at any drug store in the country.
